Sopra Steria Group, a winner at the Grands Prix de la Transparence 2017

Paris, September 22nd 2017 – At the 8th Grands Prix de la Transparence ceremony, Sopra Steria Group was recognised for its communication of regulated financial information.

A winner in the 'Services to communities and technologies' category, Sopra Steria was presented with its award at the ceremony organised by Labrador, a regulated communication consulting agency, on September 21st at Hotel Potocki, in Paris.

The award reflects the Sopra Steria Group's determination to achieve transparency and implement best practice in communications with its main stakeholders, shareholders, investors, clients and partners.

107 companies were nominated in 2017, and 14 received awards:

The Transparency Study is conducted annually by Labrador's teams, which review all public information documents produced by SBF 120 index companies incorporated under French law. An independent scientific committee made up of figures representing all the main interested parties approved the methodology and the results.

The four regulated information sources analysed in 2017 are:

- The Annual Registration Document
- The Ethical Charter (new in 2017)
- The Website
- The Notice Convening the General Meeting
